Tutoring Writing

RHET 2500(3)-001
Fall 2024

TIME: Mondays and Wednesdays 4:00-5:15 pm

Do you enjoy writing? Do you enjoy having conversations about writing? Do you enjoy working with other students on writing projects and assignments ... and getting paid for it while you are at it? If so, I welcome you to consider becoming a tutor in the University of Winnipeg Writing Centre. The Writing Centre is located in Graham Hall 3G10 and 3G11 where exciting writing opportunities exist. We are looking for tutors in the Humanities and the Sciences.

I currently train writing tutors on campus to become peer tutors in the Writing Centre at UW. Training to become a paid writing tutor requires enrollment in RHET-2500, a 3-credit-hour course that meets in the fall on Mondays and Wednesdays 4:00-5:15 pm in the Writing Centre. (This course counts as Humanities credits.) Once you are enrolled in the class, you begin tutoring (and paid) in the fall. Hours are flexible.

If you enjoy having conversations about writing and helping peers with writing assignments, then this is an opportunity I encourage you to explore by enrolling in RHET-2500. I look forward to seeing you there.
